

I am concerned about the proposed change in FCC regulations that would lift a ban on cross ownership of the media and allow greater concentration of media control. I think such a move would limit the diversity of information available to Americans and would give the dominant corporate and political powers undue sway over public opinion. I am sure that some people believe any kind of FCC regulation is threatens free speech and free thought, but I believe that corporate media monopolies are a GREATER threat to the free distribution of information, and that this is a case where FCC regulations are necessary in order to maintain Americans' access to information. Please maintain the ban on cross-ownership of the media and the limits on concentration of media control.
